Kinship and Killing: The Animal in World Religions. Through close readings of Jewish, Christian, Islamic, and Buddhist texts, Katherine Wills Perlo proves that our relationship with animals shapes religious doctrine, particularly through the tension between animal exploitation and the bonds of kinship. She pinpoints four different strategies for coping with this conflict.

Kinship and Killing: The Animal in World Religions on JSTOR

Important and exciting, Kinship and Killing shows how the status of animals in major world religions arose as projections of the attitudes rooted in their respective cultures. The scholarship is rich, the writing is clear, and the critical evaluations are judicious.
